1 GRANTS PROGRAMME

1.1 Background

UNICRI is a United Nations entity established in 1968 to support countries worldwide in preventing crime and facilitating criminal justice. Crime is a common concern both for governments and citizens across the globe. As crime becomes increasingly internationalized, new forms of crime emerge, and organized crime spreads, national responses and international cooperation are required in the fields of crime prevention and criminal justice. UNICRI is mandated to assist intergovernmental, governmental and non-governmental organizations in formulating and implementing improved policies in the field of crime prevention and criminal justice.

To effectively mitigate conflict in society it is necessary to strengthen and promote a bottom-up approach, implementing practical, innovative and sustainable measures that are customized to local and regional conditions. This is a domain where civil society stakeholders can be very useful and are a crucial partner to engage with.

As part of UNICRI mandate and in line with the Institute's programmatic strategy, this Call for Proposals aims at reinforcing partnership and cooperation with civil society organizations and non-state actors, supporting them in delivering innovative projects and disseminate lessons learned and good practices for conflict mitigation.

Regional cross-border cooperation is desirable and encouraged. Particular focus and priority will be given to projects that will contribute to test innovative ideas and that show strong capacity to handle and mitigate possible risks.

The main target groups and beneficiaries will be civil society organizations, media, cultural and religious associations, women and youth organizations and local communities.

Grant funding under this Call for Proposals shall be provided to projects that contribute to:
